RyanVM WGA Addon Activation For Windows

This is a small WGA add-on for the Windows XP installer. Requires Windows XP SP2 and all required Windows updates. Ryancube WGA Installer is a tool to install Windows Genuine Advantage (WGA) in an enterprise environment. It is intended to allow you to install the latest updates from Microsoft's Windows Genuine Advantage server or a local server. The latter allows you to circumvent the Windows Update server, to allow you to avoid Internet latency. Ryancube WGA Installer will help administrators install and configure WGA for every employee, thus assuring that everyone is on the same page. Once WGA is installed, Ryancube WGA Installer will re-enable WGA for all users. Install the latest updates from Windows Update Installs the latest updates that are available from Microsoft's Windows Update servers Disables the Windows Genuine Advantage warning for all users Disables the Windows Genuine Advantage warnings for all users, and displays a message informing them that WGA has been disabled As part of installing updates from Windows Update, WGA will be automatically re-enabled For all WGA-enabled users, re-enabling WGA will trigger a warning The Ryancube WGA Installer will prompt the user with a message informing them that a version of the Windows Genuine Advantage installed on the system has been updated, and that Windows Update will be unavailable for a few minutes during the process. If the user has a limited Internet connection, this message will give them the option to download and install the latest Windows Update via their local network. New in WinHEC 13 Ability to install updates from Windows Update Windows Genuine Advantage Enabled – Re-enable Windows Genuine Advantage for all users Windows Genuine Advantage Disabled – Disable WGA for all users WGA Notifications – If WGA is enabled for a user, an on-screen notification will be displayed Support for Microsoft Office 2007 WinHEC 2012 WinHEC 12 introduces new Windows Genuine Advantage and Microsoft Intune features that are specific to Windows 8 Pro, Windows 8 Enterprise, and Windows 8 RT. It also adds support for Windows Vista. WinHEC 2012 Windows Genuine Advantage for Windows 8 Pro and Windows 8 Enterprise Windows Genuine Advantage (WGA) for Windows 8 Pro and Windows 8 Enterprise are different than those for Windows 8 RT. In Windows 8 Pro and Windows 8 Enterprise, Microsoft issues WGA updates only on Windows Update.

Eliminate the need to install a new Windows setup project in the dev environment Support for all Genuine Advantage Notifications Replace the original executable which only supports IE based checks Allow the end user to check and fix the Windows Genuine Advantage Key via a System Pop Up Support 1, 2, 3, and 4 Key windows for GC (GC has been updated to include XP as a supported OS, not GC) This is to update our previous post regarding KB905474 (Windows Genuine Advantage Notifications). This post provides an additional description on what the keymacro is and what it can do. Windows Genuine Advantage is a security feature that helps to protect the authenticity of a system that uses Windows Genuine Advantage and Windows Updates. The security feature is being used to assist in detecting whether or not the system has an authentic copy of Windows and if the system is a genuine Windows system. While these issues are important to address, we also wanted the utility to be user friendly. While there are 2 ways to update the Windows Install CD, to be very honest, I don't think you want the end user to have to make those two calls when they can have one install cd in their computer. How does this work? The keymacro reads the WGA product key and determine if it matches the product key on the Windows XP setup. If it does match, it replaces the original executable which is in the system partition with a modified executable which will read the product key and call the Windows Update to retrieve the required information. This will allow for a new "check-and-fix" process in the form of a system pop up. Install Notes: A number of updates are needed to properly support the check-and-fix process. KB905464 Windows Update Installation issues are being addressed for some older PC hardware. As of WGA v. 3.02 there is no installation issue for the current user (check this article for details). KB905474 Support for the Windows Genuine Advantage Key has been added to GC. KB905467 The Patch, KB904002, has been removed. The focus is being placed on the Windows Update (WUA) and Genuine Advantage (WGA) checks. KB905464 Issue with Windows Update has been addressed. KB905480 has been released to provide additional information. KB905465 1d6a3396d6

What's New in the RyanVM WGA Addon?

This is a binary file written to the root of the Windows XP installation disc. If it is run in user mode, the NT kernel will start up and notify the user that he must activate Microsoft's key. If it is run in kernel mode, the user is prompted to supply his verification code. The WGA code must be located in the beginning of a drive, and the root path must be specified in the CD boot parameter. Instructions: In user mode, you would double-click on the file. If you wish to run in kernel mode, change the "KernelMode=1" line in the configuration file to "KernelMode=0". Note that this code is binary. If you have any problems installing or executing it, contact the author of the code for support. Note: The WGA subsystem in the Windows operating system runs in the Real Mode of the CPU (except in extended mode), which means that Windows expects BIOS and hardware in particular configurations. Because of this, the minimum requirement for the Linux kernel is 2.0.1, and the minimum requirement for Windows XP is Service Pack 2 (SP2). If your system does not meet these requirements, you will not be able to execute the code. If you have any questions, please contact the author. System Requirements For RyanVM WGA Addon:

• This mod uses Java SE 7.0. • This mod is meant to be installed in a multiplayer game. • You need a Humble Store account. • You need Minecraft 1.10.2 (at least beta 1). What is the Umbrella mod? The Umbrella mod will never be directly available to players. It's just used by server admins to block all incoming players from a particular location on your server. The good thing is, you don't have to download anything and you don't have to set anything
