===== Listening to music on Android The Android phone doesn't recognize the USB Microphone, so here's a workaround. Connect the USB microphone to any computer. Copy the audio file to your computer. Delete the file. Create an audio file using the audio editor on the computer. Save it as a wav file and copy it to the SD card. Play the wav file on the Android phone. You can use Android's internal voice recognition as well. === Learning Java I'll show you how to create a HelloWorld-style application for Android. First you need to create an empty application called "Java". Then, copy and paste this code into the main Java file: package com.sample; import android.os.Bundle; import android.app.Activity; import android.view.Menu; public class Java extends Activity { @Override protected void onCreate(Bundle savedInstanceState) { super.onCreate(savedInstanceState); setContentView(R.layout.activity_java); } @Override public boolean onCreateOptionsMenu(Menu menu) { // Inflate the menu; this adds items to the action bar if it is present. getMenuInflater().inflate(R.menu.activity_java, menu); return true; } }

Use the master clock setting to create this lag. (0-800 msec in 1/10ths of a second increments). THE MASTER CLOCK SETTING: The Master Clock setting allows you to select the lag you would like your program to generate. The Master Clock Setting can be as slow as 0 msec or as fast as 800 msec. When you set the Master Clock to 0 or set it to a very high number (800 msec or more), you will be able to choose from the AudioSyncer Edit>Adjust Time Delay menu, to create the precise lag you desire. AUDIO SYNCHRONIZER SETTING COMMANDS: 1. Set the Master Clock: Use the AudioSyncer Edit>Adjust Time Delay menu to select the setting you would like to use for the AudioSyncer Seting. 2. Resample Audio: If you want to resample your audio, you can use this command to do so. Select this command from the AudioSyncer menu (marked with a F in the figure below). Use this command to select the number of times you would like AudioSyncer to resample your audio (This will not change the Master Clock setting). 3. Stop the Recording: Use this command to stop the recording (This will cancel any adjustments you have made to the master clock setting, or resampling) 4. Launch Soundfile Editor: Use this command to launch the Soundfile Editor. 5. Set Audio Delay: Use this command to adjust the Audio Delay setting. You can adjust the delay by clicking and dragging the Time Scale bar (See figure below). The bar on the left side shows the time you are currently holding down on your keyboard, and the bar on the right side shows the number of milliseconds, or seconds. The number on the right side is the number of seconds from the start of the recording. The number on the left side is the number of seconds from the end of the recording. You can use your mouse to zoom out to see the rest of the time scale. 6. Click this button to return to the AudioSyncer menu. Share this item with your friends: 2 Responses to AudioSyncer 3.5.4 I'm a little unclear about the 'stop' command... should I right click the recording icon to stop it, or the record window to stop it? If it's the latter, 77a5ca646e
